FEBRUARY Happy Valentine's Day!

What is a Mocha Latte?

A mocha latte is basically a regular caffe latte with chocolate or cocoa added. A caffe latte, known as a latte in American culture, is made with coffee and milk. It may have been inspired by a hot coffee beverage that originated in the early 1700s from a coffeehouse in Italy.

The latte has roots as an American beverage which began booming in Seattle in the 1980s. The mocha latte followed and became just as popular. We now bring the great taste of this classic directly to your doorstep!

Dear Friends,

This month we are excited to introduce a product that we have created—a new Mocha Latte that is part of our Colorado Cold Brew line! I thought I would share a little about the process of rolling out products that we have developed.

First, we gather ideas of what our customers may want through online surveys, conversations with customers over the phone or at the doorstep, and by watching market trends.

Then, we bring these ideas to our amazing Plant Manager, Luke. He works up a recipe for us to sample after he's done his homework. This is one of the really fun parts of our job—sampling some of Luke's creations.

Next, we offer samples to a small subset of customers. We then ask them to take a survey after trying the sample. We continue to tweak the product until we have it right....and that's how new Longmont Dairy products are born.

Thank you for your ideas, feedback and support as we continue to build our product line. Let us know what you'd like to see next!

Take care,

Katie

Colorado Cold Brew Mocha Latte

The perfect balance of coffee and sweetness! It combines locally roasted coffee and the rich, complex flavors of chicory with just the right amount of cocoa, 2% milk, and sugar. When compared with some of the top brands, the taste of our smooth, creamy blend is preferred. Give it a try, you will agree!

MOOO RECIPES

Wrapped Rome's Sausage Bites

Want to bring this fun party food to the next level? Brush the dough with honey mustard before baking. Makes 24-32 bites.

1 8-oz. can refrigerated pastry dough sheet
Honey Dijon mustard
8 Rome's Italian sausages
1 large egg, beaten

Poppy seeds (optional)
Flaky sea salt (optional)
Mustards, such as brown or whole-grain (optional)

Cook sausage according to package instructions. Cool to room temperature.

On a lightly floured surface, roll pastry sheet into a 12" square, then cut into 4" squares. Lightly brush lower half of each square with mustard, center a sausage on mustard-coated edge, and brush top inch with egg. Roll sausages in pastry, pressing seams to seal tightly. Brush tops with egg, then sprinkle with poppy seeds or flaky salt. Cut each at an angle into quarters or thirds.

Preheat oven to 400° F. Place frozen bites 1" apart on parchment-lined baking sheets. Bake until dough is golden brown, about 25 minutes. Serve warm with mustards.

Prepared sausage bites can be frozen until firm, then stored in freezer up to one month.

Rome's Meatball Pizza Cups

These pizza cups are the perfect game day finger food to feed a crowd, and very kid-friendly. Makes 24 cups.

2 11-oz. cans refrigerated thin pizza crust
1½ cup pizza sauce
2 cups Tillamook shredded cheese

24 Rome's meatballs
½ cup fresh basil, chopped

Preheat oven to 375° F. Unroll pizza dough and use a small cup or biscuit cutter to cut dough into twelve 2½" rounds. Press each round into the cup of a non-stick mini muffin tin. Spoon pizza sauce into each cup, sprinkle with a bit of cheese, then gently press a meatball into each cup.

Bake pizza cups for 5 minutes, then sprinkle more cheese atop the dough. Finish baking, another 5-10 minutes, or until the edges of the dough are golden brown. Cool slightly before removing from muffin tin. Top with a spoonful of sauce and fresh basil before serving.
